WELCOME TO THE OXFORD SCHOOL OF HOSPITALITY MANAGEMENT

Being at university is about so much more than gaining expertise in your chosen subject area. It’s about enhancing your intellectual capacity, developing professionally and preparing yourself for success throughout your life and career.

We are dedicated to providing you with opportunities for personal growth and transformation. The quality of teaching, rigour of academic research and constant interaction with the industry creates a vibrant and challenging environment.

We foster a learning community that is international in its outlook and promotes social responsibility, inclusivity and the celebration of diversity.

ANGELA MAHER, Programme Lead
I would recommend Oxford Brookes because of its international reputation – something that gives us a real advantage going into employment. The course provides us with a clear direction and path to success. The work placement year also gives us better prospects as employers know we have experience in the industry already.

TJ SMITH
4th Year student

My degree at Oxford Brookes has given me a great theoretical and practical foundation from which to progress. Oxford Brookes offered me the very best in terms of scope and quality of teaching. I completed the three modules on finance and enjoyed it from beginning to end. It was great to be learning the theoretical aspect of the business but be able to relate the studies to real life situations.

JOHN KENTISH BARNES
Graduate

Four Seasons Hotel London at Park Lane

You benefit from outstanding career opportunities

EXCELLENCE IN EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES

Our reputation is continually enhanced by the achievements of our alumni, who go on to shape the nature of industry practice.

NETWORKING

One of the most valuable lessons you will learn here is the importance of building and maintaining a professional network in order to achieve a smooth transition from education to the workplace.

You are encouraged and supported to develop your own network of professional contacts through a wide variety of introductions and experiences that the school will make available to you.

Our range of formal and informal networking events will give you exposure to successful alumni, entrepreneurs and industry leaders who will share their experiences of the sector.

WORK PLACEMENT

Compulsory supervised work experience forms an important part of the programme. Our students go on fantastic work placements with prestigious employers worldwide, including Marriott, Four Seasons, Hilton, Shangri-La, D&D London and the British Academy of Film and Television Arts (BAFTA).

Our dedicated team helps you secure a placement that matches your aspirations and abilities. Throughout your placement, you will have a tutor who visits you at work and provides ongoing advice and encouragement.

You will gain highly relevant experience during the work placement year, developing the personal and professional skills that employers are looking for.

Experience of this kind greatly enhances your CV, which will help you secure a great job after graduating.

GRADUATE RECRUITMENT FAIRS

We welcome over 40 employers to the school each year to recruit students for graduate and placement positions.

As well as weekly employer visits, we host a careers fair for our students in March each year. Many leading hospitality companies present at the school, including:

- Fairmont Hotels & Resorts
- InterContinental Hotels Group
- BaxterStorey
- Rhubarb Events
- Four Seasons Hotels and Resorts
- BVLGARI

GRADUATE EMPLOYABILITY

Graduates of the Oxford School of Hospitality Management enjoy a strong reputation for being extremely employable. Students have the intellectual capacity, skills and experience that employers want. Our graduates go on to a wide range of careers and many companies attend the school each year to recruit our students.

We have outstanding worldwide links with the industry and deliver unparalleled opportunities for you to network and secure an exciting graduate career.

The Oxford School of Hospitality Management is ranked in the top three best hospitality schools in the world (Worldwide Hospitality Schools Award, 2016).

Oxford Brookes provided me with everything I needed to start a successful career in the hospitality industry. From the fantastic learning opportunities on campus to the chance to gain valuable work experience in the industry as an employee of The Breakers, Palm Beach, Florida. My four years at Oxford Brookes was a wonderful experience, where I met life-long friends and was supported by a fabulous school careers service. I benefited hugely from the strong relationships the school has with the international hospitality industry.

I did a one-year work placement at the Savoy Hotel. I worked for six months in their iconic restaurant, Kaspar’s Seafood Bar and Grill. I then moved to banqueting and events and finally to front office – it was great. When I left, I felt like a completely different person, and now I have the Savoy on my CV! It was the greatest year of my life so far.

RECENT PLACEMENT EMPLOYERS
- The Savoy Hotel, London
- Rhubarb Events, London
- Sheraton Hotels & Resorts, China
- Lexington, London
- Westin Hotels & Resort, USA

BENEFITS OF A WORK PLACEMENT
By doing a placement you will receive:
- Paid, full-time work experience
- Practical experience in the hospitality, events or tourism industry
- A dedicated service to guide your placement search
- Tailored placement skills development workshops
- Continual support from the school
- Improved graduate employability
- Chance of a firm offer of employment.

APPLYING FOR YOUR PLACEMENT
During the first taught year of your course, you and your tutors will discuss the type of placement that would best suit your interests and future career.

You will be given guidance by your tutors on how to apply for a position. This includes workshops on CVs and how to prepare for your placement year.

You can also receive advice through the Careers Centre, including interview techniques and creating LinkedIn profiles.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENTS
For international students there is full support given by the school, the International Student Advice Team and the Careers Centre.

Before you start your placement, workshops are provided on how to prepare for working abroad or in the UK.

One-Year Work Placement

The compulsory one-year work placement is a great opportunity to get experience in the hospitality industry and put what you have learnt into practice.

Placement Opportunities

All placement positions are paid and provided by top employers from all sectors of the hospitality industry, including hotels, tourism, events, restaurants and contract catering organisations.
When you come to apply for jobs it’s the experience that you get at Oxford Brookes that really counts, so make the most of the placement year. If you can get that ‘shop floor’ experience then grab it with both hands, because it will make you a much more rounded leader.

EXCELLENCE IN INTERNATIONAL EXPOSURE

Hospitality is a truly global sector and the content of our course is very internationally focused. At Oxford Brookes we prepare you for a global career.

I went on a work placement to the Westin Resort on Hilton Head Island in South Carolina, USA. I really enjoyed my role and it was great fun meeting people from around the world. I love giving excellent customer service, and this is what Westin taught me.

I wanted to do something that I’ve not done before, so my Academic Adviser helped me by suggesting companies to apply for in the USA.

HARRY LOCKWOOD
4th Year student

Global understanding and experience

One of the main reasons I chose Brookes was because I could gain the international experience I wanted from going on a study exchange. University of Technology Sydney is right in the heart of Sydney. Being able to go to the beach after lectures was a dream! Another benefit of my study exchange was travelling to different places within Australia and neighbouring countries, which I relished. My exchange enabled me to develop my independence and cross-cultural skills, which are vital for an industry as diverse as hospitality.

YVETTE MOUGHTON
4th Year student

INTERNATIONAL WORK PLACEMENT
The hospitality industry is global and, as such, presents our students with the chance to undertake work placement positions all round the world.

INTERNATIONAL FIELD TRIPS
It’s not just about theoretical learning, there are also opportunities to visit locations as diverse as Romania and Kenya.

One opportunity is for groups of students to visit Kenya to explore social enterprise as a business model. Students gain experience in the field, learning how social enterprise can influence local communities and how tourism and hospitality organisations can be the driving force for social change.

AN INTERNATIONAL DEPARTMENT
The Oxford School of Hospitality Management welcomes students from more than 55 countries. Similarly our staff come from all over the world. The international mix gives you exposure to a wide range of cultures, which reflects the nature of the hospitality industry and prepares you for an international career. This global reach is also reflected in the content of the course.

INTERNATIONAL EXCHANGE
Studying overseas gives you the valuable opportunity to broaden your horizons through living and working in another culture. Our students regularly study at our partner universities in locations such as Australia, Canada, Hong Kong, Thailand and USA.
ENGLISH LANGUAGE REQUIREMENTS
If your first language is not English, you must show the university that your level of English is high enough to study at undergraduate level. In addition to the academic entry qualifications, you must have the following (or equivalent qualification):

IELTS: normally 6.0 overall and a minimum of 6.0 in reading and writing.

If you require a student visa you will need to meet the UK Government’s English language requirements.

INTRODUCTORY COURSES
To help prepare international students for studying in the UK, we provide English language courses specifically for studying at undergraduate degree level. The courses are designed and taught by specialists in English for Academic Purposes. These courses are validated by Oxford Brookes University and accredited by the British Council.

To find out more about English language preparation, please visit:
brookes.ac.uk/international

STUDENT ACCOMMODATION
International students are guaranteed university accommodation provided they meet the application deadline.

For further information, please visit:
brookes.ac.uk/accommodation

VISA REQUIREMENTS
Most international students from outside the EU will need a Tier 4 visa to study in the UK. To be eligible for this you must be studying a full-time programme.

For more information visit:
brookes.ac.uk/students/isat/visas

WORK WHILE YOU ARE STUDYING
If you want to earn money or gain more experience whilst you are in the UK and you are a student from within the European Economic Area (EEA), currently you can work in the UK without any restrictions. Non-EEA students may work up to 20 hours per week during semesters and full-time during vacations, unless you have a stamp in your passport which prohibits you from working.

Further information is available on the British Government Visa Services website:
ukvisas.gov.uk

HELP WHEN YOU NEED IT
Once you have accepted an offer to study at Oxford Brookes, you will receive our international pre-arrival guide with information on everything from visas and accommodation to British culture. During the arrival weekends in September, our friendly staff will meet you at the airport and help you to settle into life at the university.

For more information, please visit:
brookes.ac.uk/students/isat

SUPPORT
We recognise that coming to live and study in the UK may be a new experience for you as an international student. Our specialist advice team is here to help you with issues such as visas, finance and employment before you arrive and throughout your time at Oxford Brookes.

It was daunting coming to a foreign country for the first time. However, I felt completely comfortable here in Oxford. There is always support if I need it, both academically and socially.

DEVELOPING EXCELLENCE IN OUR COMMUNITY

When you join the Oxford School of Hospitality Management you become part of our community for life. You will not only be a student, you will develop a life-long partnership with the school.

GASTRONOMICA
The Oxford School of Hospitality Management is home to Gastronomica, a specialist centre for the study of food, drink and culture.

Gastronomica has grown since its launch in 2007 to become a leading player in its field, both nationally and internationally.

It commits to integrity in food sourcing and it is responsible for fuelling students’ passion for food and wine.

You will have the chance to attend Gastronomica events which bring students together with food industry professionals, academics and those working in the creative arts.

STUDENT MENTORING
During your first semester you will be mentored by a final year student who will help you settle in. This is a great opportunity for you to learn from the expertise and knowledge that they have developed during their course, enabling you to make the most of your first year.

Final year students also benefit from this experience as they develop valuable mentoring skills ahead of their careers in management. They also learn how to work closely with and support others.

In addition, you will receive advice and guidance from Academic Advisers and work placement tutors throughout your first year.

This supportive environment will allow you to grow your independence in a way that suits your personal development needs.

BACCHUS MENTORING PROGRAMME
The Bacchus Mentoring Programme links all undergraduate final year students with senior, experienced executives from the international hospitality and tourism industry. Each student has a dedicated mentor who provides realistic insights into the challenges and opportunities in hospitality and tourism. This programme has had a major impact on the learning experience of our students and many of these relationships are so strong that they continue long after students have graduated.

Fresh out of Brookes, Rakhee became Hotel Assistant Manager at the Four Seasons London, before seizing the opportunity to join The Dorchester Collection Corporate Office.

“The links that Oxford Brookes has provided me with have played a big part in my career, and it was my mentor who advised me to build on my operations experience before entering the field of HR.”

RAKHEE PATEL
Graduate, People and Talent Manager, Dorchester Collection
The Bacchus Society

As president of the Bacchus Society I co-lead a committee of 40 people who help organise events throughout the year; these range from educational talks, to Champagne tastings and our annual Bacchus Summer Ball.

The society is a great way to bring students, staff and alumni together, helping to enhance the students’ learning experience whilst aiding their journey into the working world.

Bacchus sits very much at the heart of the Oxford School of Hospitality Management.

Nicholas Le Gal
4th Year student, Undergraduate President, The Bacchus Society

The Bacchus Society is recognised as one of the most active and successful societies in the university.

It is recommended that you get involved in your first year and join this vibrant community of current students, academics, alumni and friends of the school.

The hospitality industry thrives on relationships and Bacchus events provide opportunities for you to meet and learn from successful graduates and establish connections from across the world.

You can get involved with the society’s student committee and gain experience in organising events as a team, write for the society magazine and help with the marketing and the accounts.

The Bacchus Society encourages you to stay connected with the school after you graduate so you continue to benefit from the networks that you build.

Find out more about the Bacchus Society on Facebook.

OXFORD LIFE

As one of the most famous centres of education in the world, Oxford is a fantastic place for students to live. From its historic buildings to its scenic riverside pubs, it is a place where every student feels welcome.

A CENTRE FOR HOSPITALITY AND LEARNING

Oxford is one of the world’s great cities. With a reputation built on education, literature and the arts, Oxford attracts visitors from all continents, making it the perfect location in which to study hospitality. You will benefit from our close links with all sectors of the Oxfordshire hospitality industry, from hotels and restaurants, to museums and theatres.

Oxford is also a great base from which to travel further afield, located only an hour from London and international airports.

A PLACE TO HAVE FUN AND EXPLORE

More than one in five of the Oxford population is a student, and the city has an array of vibrant and varied bars, restaurants and clubs.

Oxford enjoys a multicultural population so, whatever your preferred cuisine, you will find a restaurant or café catering to your tastes.

The city is graced with an abundance of beautiful architecture steeped in historical significance, fascinating museums and galleries and, with London so close, you will never be short of new things to experience.

CAMPUS LOCATION

The Oxford School of Hospitality Management is based at the Headington Campus, which is just over a mile from the city centre. During the summer of 2017 the school is moving to newly redeveloped facilities, offering first-class social learning spaces, lecture theatres and seminar rooms.

The Headington Campus is also home to the new John Henry Brookes Building, which brings together the library and essential support services that offer academic, careers and international student advice.

The majority of our student halls are close to the Headington Campus.

CAMPUS LIFE

The Students’ Union at Oxford Brookes is based in the new John Henry Brookes Building at the Headington Campus. It has a student bar and a theatre-style hall which hosts performances, film screenings, workshops, seminars and many other events.

You will have access to the university’s sports facilities including a fitness suite, badminton, tennis, squash and basketball courts, sports teams and a climbing wall.

There are more than 70 student societies, so whether you like sports, music, drama, photography, or your interests are cultural, political, environmental or religious, you will find a club or society to suit you.
Every time I visit Oxford Brookes I am struck by the professionalism and work ethic of its students and by the dedication of its staff.

Why do I feel so comfortable lecturing and working at Brookes? That is easy to answer – the students and staff share my passion, energy and commitment, and they know what it takes to succeed.

I am immensely proud to be part of the Oxford School of Hospitality Management and I am delighted to be a Founding Patron of Gastronomica, which is the school’s specialist centre for the study of food, drink and culture.

EXCELLENCE IN TEACHING AND LEARNING

The Oxford School of Hospitality Management has an impressive international reputation as one of the world’s principal providers of management education in this field.

How you will learn

We engage our students in real world activities so their learning is current and relevant.

You will learn through a combination of:

- lectures – formal introduction to new subjects;
- seminars – in-depth discussions in small groups;
- tutorials – individual meetings between you and your tutor;
- projects and practical work – including field trips, consultancy, projects, debates, role plays and work experience.

SUPPORTING YOUR LEARNING

- You will be part of a strong learning community that enables you to recognise and fulfil your potential; what you learn will be cutting-edge, reflecting the very best industry practice.
- From Academic Advisers and support coordinators, to specialist subject librarians and other learning support staff, we have a number of experts available to support your learning and ensure that you get the most out of your studies.

STUDENT EXPERIENCE

We adopt an innovative approach to teaching, which ensures your learning experience is vibrant and engaging; we firmly believe learning should be exciting as well as challenging.

You will develop strong working relationships with your lecturers, which will help you get the most out of the course. We create a positive, enjoyable atmosphere in the classroom and promote a supportive environment, which helps you develop the skills and knowledge that employers look for.

Many of our alumni keep in close contact with their lecturers as they progress in their career to senior positions in the hospitality industry.

The opportunities we get are absolutely wonderful. The support given by tutors and staff is fantastic and the extracurricular activities that they organise for us are brilliant. We have external speakers visiting to give talks about things we’re passionate about and it really allows us to expand our knowledge of the subject we are studying. The tutors use a huge range of teaching methods to keep us engaged, and they are extremely knowledgeable. They’ve always been there for me and I can’t fault it.

During our Entrepreneurship and Creativity module we had the opportunity to undertake a ‘Dragon’s Den’ style pitch. We had to come up with our own business idea, plan budgets and create an outline of what we wanted to do. We had eight minutes to ‘pitch’, which was extremely daunting but the contacts and opportunities it has provided me with are invaluable.

MARTE MARTIN
4th Year student

The hospitality industry is fast paced and thrives on innovative concepts. This course is designed to uncover the entrepreneur in you and help you develop your ideas. Every student who takes the final year Entrepreneurship and Creativity in Hospitality and Tourism module has their business idea assessed in a Dragons’ Den style pitch, similar to those featured on the popular TV series. Our students present their innovative new ideas to a high profile judging panel of entrepreneurs and industry specialists, who provide sound advice and valuable feedback.

GARETH BANNER
Managing Director,
The Ned, Soho House & Co.

As an alumnus, I recognise that the Oxford School of Hospitality Management is a major player in developing future industry leaders. It prepares students to a very high standard by engaging with industry through work placements and its acclaimed mentoring programme.

GUEST SPEAKERS
We invite prestigious guest speakers to enhance your learning experience throughout the course, who share their extensive knowledge and expertise. Recent guest speakers have included:

EUGENIO PIRRI FCIPD, Vice President, People and Organisational Development, Dorchester Collection
BEN OKRI, OBE, FRSL, Poet and Novelist
JEREMIAH TOWER, Author and Consultant, Jeremiah Tower Consulting
GIL MULDERS, Head of Learning Europe, InterContinental Hotels Group
CARLO PETRINI, Founder of The International Slow Food Movement.

NETWORKING EVENTS
Through a variety of networking events that run throughout the year, you will benefit from the chance to connect with key industry figures from whom you can gain advice and build your network of contacts across the sector.

EXCELLENCE IN RESEARCH

The school has a strong and collaborative research culture, which will help you develop intellectually.

100% of BSc International Hospitality Management students agreed that their learning has benefited from modules informed by current research. (NSS, 2016)

My dissertation focuses on menu designs in small luxury hotel restaurants. I am researching how altering the design and appearance of menus might influence the average spend of customers. With a dissertation you get the freedom to study what you want, in an area that really interests you.

The Methods of Enquiry module in the 3rd year is really useful, as it lets you study different research methods and helps you produce a detailed plan for a dissertation.

KASEY WATSON

YOUR PROGRAMME IS BUILT ON WORLD-CLASS RESEARCH

The Oxford School of Hospitality Management has a thriving research culture. Top hospitality and tourism academics conduct rigorous research that advances sector knowledge and addresses the needs of national and international organisations. During your course you will be kept up to date with the current developments and issues in the industry.

RESEARCH PROJECTS

You can take part in your own research projects. You will be supervised by a specialist tutor who provides expert knowledge and one-to-one guidance throughout your project, helping you develop your research skills and techniques.

RESEARCH SEMINARS AND PUBLIC LECTURES

There is a diverse programme of research seminars and public lectures. This offers another insight into the hospitality industry and is valuable to your professional development.

Recent guest speakers include Melanie Richards, Vice-Chair and partner at KPMG; John Bennett, Co-Chief Executive Officer of BaxterStorey; and Professor Jessica B. Harris, academic, author and broadcaster, Queens College, New York.

RESEARCH WITH PRACTICAL IMPACT

The school prides itself on carrying out research with a sustainable and social impact. For example, the COMBAT human trafficking project, co-funded by the European Commission, aims to develop measures for combating human trafficking in the hospitality industry.

Another project investigates the barriers and enablers of women’s entrepreneurship in the Terai Region of Nepal, and the school is involved in a project focusing on enhancing the social well-being of the elderly through collaboration with hospitality businesses, elderly support groups and government policy makers.

The BSc (Hons) International Hospitality Management course really helps you get ready for a future management role. I’m really interested in marketing and finance, and have been able to take modules related to these areas. You can also choose to focus on lots of different subjects like events or human resource management.

During my work placement year I worked at a hotel, which developed my practical knowledge, time management and teamwork skills. It’s amazing because now I can apply my work experience to my studies.
