The ‘University Regulations’ is an annual on-line publication of regulations which impact on students or academic programmes. Regulations specifically concerning other aspects of the University’s operations, such as human resources policies and regulations, will not be found in this publication. The five sections of the ‘University Regulations’ cover the following areas:

I. Statement on the University
This section sets out basic information about the University including its legal status as an institution, its ability to confer awards and important dates.

II. Academic Regulations
This section contains the regulations which cover academic programmes, starting with the overarching University-level regulations (termed Core Regulations) and then including more specific intermediary or programme-level information (Specific Regulations).

III. Appeals, Complaints and Discipline Regulations
Following on from the academic regulations concerning programmes, this section outlines the means available for students with concerns and grievances as well as the student discipline regulations.

IV. General Regulations
General information concerning the student’s relationship with the University is contained in this section.

V. Miscellaneous Policies, Statements and Codes of Practice
This final section contains a variety of policies documents, statements and Codes of Practice on aspects of the University’s provision affecting students and programmes.
