Users of IT facilities must behave reasonably towards other users and the facilities and in public areas they must behave appropriately. Users who do not behave reasonably and appropriately may be subject to disciplinary action in accordance with relevant procedures. Examples showing reasonable and appropriate behaviour are given in guidelines issued by the University from time to time. Users are responsible for making themselves familiar with this guidance. The guidelines give examples of reasonable and appropriate behaviour but are not exhaustive.

See Regulations for the use of IT facilities at Oxford Brookes University for more information.
