RESEARCH AND GLOBAL PARTNERSHIPS

OUR RESEARCH

Research at Oxford Brookes enjoys an international reputation, attracting high quality staff and students. Our strategy for research and knowledge exchange, refreshed in 2016, sets out the University’s future ambitions in the higher education sector, including developing our recognised research portfolio across the faculties whilst nurturing our emerging strengths and fostering greater international collaboration.

We were successful in the last Research Excellence Framework (REF 2014), which showed 94% of Brookes research to be internationally recognised and 59% judged ‘world-leading’ or ‘internationally excellent’. This resulted in an increase in the University’s QR funding for 2015-16 from £3.44m to £4.84m (an increase of 41% compared to a 3% rise across the sector).

Investing in individuals and groups of researchers at every stage of their career is central to our success. Oxford Brookes has committed a central fund of £4.1m from its own resources to support individuals and research groups.

In addition to this, we have chosen to allocate more than £430,000 of funds from the Higher Education Founding Council for England (HEFCE) to support research staff development, including funding promising researchers and sabbaticals.

In 2016 we launched our Research Excellence Awards, which support research-active academics with funding towards research leave or employment of a research assistant. We also hold the HR Excellence in Research Award from the European Commission, which recognises our commitment to supporting research-active staff.

Major funding comes from research councils, charitable trusts, industry and government. In recent years we have been successful in winning competitive funding from UK government departments and from the European Commission.

In 2016 four research teams at Oxford Brookes were awarded over £480,000 from the Newton Fund to develop collaborative research projects with countries including Brazil and Mexico.

Through Knowledge Transfer Partnerships (KTPs), we have produced significant benefits for our partner businesses. We have a strong record of award-winning KTPs with industry, including Sony Entertainment and Inter-Continental Hotels. The latest projects are looking at solving problems of overheating in care homes and the design of buildings for flood resilience.

Our income from intellectual property (IP) was £2.3m in 2015/16, which ranks us ninth against all UK higher education institutions for IP income, according to HEFCE’s Higher Education Business and Community Interaction Survey and we have been in the top ten for the last seven years.

GLOBAL PARTNERSHIPS

Oxford Brookes is a university with an international outlook and reach. We already have a number of successful international partnerships and we are looking to deepen and strengthen these, as well as seek out new opportunities. We believe a key to success is to forge university-level, multi-dimensional strategic partnerships across a range of disciplines and are currently in negotiations to develop this arrangement in Malaysia.
Oxford Brookes University employs 2,800 staff. We recognise that our staff are key to our continuing success and we aim to provide comprehensive and progressive employment conditions. Our HR Strategy sets out how we will continue to provide a stimulating and rewarding work experience for all our staff, at all stages of their careers at Oxford Brookes.

We have a wide range of supportive policies including flexible working, extensive provision for staff development, opportunities for career progression and a growing emphasis on the staff experience, underpinned by our Guiding Principles.

Our new staff experience strategy and action plan aims to ensure that the University provides the best possible working environment for colleagues, improving staff wellbeing, creating a sense of community in the workplace, and encouraging discussion and open communication amongst colleagues at all levels of the institution. Several initiatives have already been initiated, such as our Brookes People Awards which recognise outstanding colleagues who exemplify our Guiding Principles.

Consultation and participation are important attributes of staff relations with colleagues contributing to key decisions and senior staff appointments. This is achieved through comprehensive internal communications, including regular campus briefings led by the Vice-Chancellor about university direction and policy, staff newsletters and new channels, such as a staff Twitter stream and internal digital screens.

Oxford Brookes demonstrates a wholehearted commitment to equality, diversity and inclusion, led from the top by the Vice-Chancellor’s Group. We hold an institutional Bronze Athena SWAN award, a Silver Athena SWAN award for our Faculty of Health and Life Sciences and a Bronze Athena SWAN award for our Faculty of Technology, Design and Environment. We are engaged with the Aurora women’s development programme and we are a member of the Stonewall Diversity Champions programme.

We have established a range of staff networks, such as the LGBT+ Forum, BME Staff Networks, Disabled Staff Network and Carers’ Network.

Generosity of spirit
We believe people flourish in a culture of respect and support, where we celebrate difference and thrive on each other’s success. Our students manifest a generosity of spirit as they progress in the world.

Confidence
We have confidence in our staff and students, and we know that we prepare our graduates well for a fulfilling and valuable life. Through their success, we continue to earn our outstanding reputation.

Connectedness
Our academic excellence is underpinned by a history of learning by doing. Our connections and our Oxford roots are fundamental to our students’ experiences and our successful future.

Enterprising creativity
We’re adaptable and flexible, and consider a fresh approach in everything we do - because we know our sustainability depends on a pioneering spirit.
Oxford is a beautiful city with a rich cultural history. The city is famous for education and architecture, museums and green spaces. With a population of over 150,000 residents, 20% of whom are students, the city has a vibrant, youthful and cosmopolitan atmosphere. Today there are nearly 3,400 businesses in Oxford providing approximately 106,000 jobs. Tourism is a thriving economy in the city, generating more than £740m annually.

Oxfordshire itself is home to over 1,400 high-tech firms, and contains more science parks than any other county in the UK.

We are proud of our home in Oxford and proud to make a significant economic, social and cultural contribution to the city; from contributing £1m per day to the UK economy, through our links with the high-skill regional economy to the expertise of our nurses and teachers in local schools and hospitals. We partner up to raise aspirations in schools, widen access to those under-represented in higher education, and to provide high-level consultancy to small and medium sized enterprises.

Oxford is only an hour from London by train and many placements and field trips make the most of this easy access. Brookes is well served by a regular coach service to central London and to Heathrow and Gatwick airports.

More information about the city of Oxford and the surrounding area is available at www.visitoxfordandoxfordshire.com
Oxford Brookes University operates on three campuses in Oxford (Headington, Harcourt Hill and Wheatley) with a smaller campus in Swindon, focused on nursing education.

The Headington campus is made up of three sites. Set in mature parkland, the Headington Hill Site is home to our School of Arts and School of Law while the Marston Road Site is a dedicated space for the Faculty of Health and Life Sciences. The Gipsy Lane Site has been the main focus of recent campus investment.

In February 2014, the new John Henry Brookes Building opened its doors and is the most significant capital project in the history of Oxford Brookes University. It has transformed the experiences of our students and the wider university community. A £132m development, it houses the library, teaching rooms, social study areas, student support services, catering facilities and Brookes Union. Designed by architects Design Engine, it has won a number of architecture awards. It incorporates a number of sustainable features that have helped it achieve BREEAM ‘Excellent’ rating.

In 2016 we opened a Bioimaging Unit on the Headington Campus housing our biological light and electron microscopes and in early 2017 teaching started in our industry standard laboratories.

The Harcourt Hill campus is home to a range of subjects, including the School of Education. The original Westminster College, founded in 1851, has had a home in Harcourt Hill since the 1950s and merged with Oxford Brookes University in 2000. In 2012 Westminster Hall was opened, providing modern, purpose-built residential accommodation for both undergraduate and postgraduate students.

The Wheatley campus became part of the Oxford Polytechnic estate in 1975. Over recent years, the campus has seen investment in an Engineering and Motorsport Centre, as well as modern undergraduate and postgraduate centres.

The Swindon campus recently moved to new premises. The Joel Joffe building provides clinical skills labs and a modern teaching location.

Our future plans

In January 2015, we announced our ten-year estate investment plan. With a planned cost of £20m per annum, this will result in a student-centred, integrated and sustainable campus environment which reinforces the University’s identity and guiding principles, and continues to attract high calibre staff and students.

The plan sets out a significant programme of refurbishment, with some potential new build at Headington and Harcourt Hill and an aim to rebalance academic activity between these two campuses. This means that the whole Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences will be based at Harcourt in the coming years, together with part of the Department of Sports and Health Sciences. The University also intends to move all its activity from the Wheatley campus and sell this site.

As of September 2017 our Business School has moved from Wheatley into completely modernised facilities on Headington Campus. The relocation of the Faculty of Technology, Design and Environment from Wheatley to Headington will follow - it is currently expected that this will take place by 2021/22.
OUR LEADERSHIP, GOVERNANCE AND FINANCES

The Vice-Chancellor reports to the Board of Governors, and is supported by the Vice-Chancellors’ Group which comprises: Pro Vice-Chancellor (Student Experience), Pro Vice-Chancellor (Research and Global Partnerships), Registrar and Chief Operating Officer, Director of Finance and Legal Services, Director of Human Resources and the four Pro-Vice Chancellor/Deans of the faculties.

The University’s Chancellor is Olympic gold medallist, Dame Dr Katherine Grainger PhD.

OUR FINANCES

Oxford Brookes University has a long track record of delivering surpluses and achieving strong financial performance against sector KPIs.

Our annual financial statements can be found on our website at www.brookes.ac.uk/about-brookes/structure-and-governance/policies-and-financial-statements/

Over the past few years the University has been delivering a significant capital investment programme to address increased student expectations and an ageing building stock.

Investment in our estate has already resulted in multi award-winning facilities and this investment carries on with a £220m investment over the next ten years.

The University is planning for strong surpluses to fund investment whilst ensuring that we continue to prioritise our resources to support an excellent student experience and to encourage growth in research and commercial activity.
