

CREATIVE LEARNING: FROM BEST PRACTICE TO NEXT PRACTICE

Exploring motivational learning across subjects and topics for all our children

Tuesday 24 -
Thursday 26
May 2016

9-4pm

A series of events and workshops discussing the principles and practices of creative approaches to learning

Oxford Brookes University School of Education is hosting and leading a series of events and workshops discussing the principles and practices of creative approaches to learning.

Together with the National Association for Primary Education (NAPE), we are hosting three days of events celebrating and developing our collaborative partnerships across the region and exploring our understanding of excellence in primary education.

Contributors and leaders include teachers, children, students, university lecturers, researchers, educational partners and guest speakers.

On Tuesday 24 May and Thursday 26 May School of Education workshops for teachers and students will take place.

On Wednesday 25 May NAPE will be running the 'Tools to tell a tale' course.

There will be a Trade Fair on Wednesday 25 May with education publishers and associated companies. A small number of exhibitors have been selected, to show and demonstrate educational products and services.

Venue:
School of Education
Harcourt Hill campus
Oxford
OX2 9AT

www.education.brookes.ac.uk

“TOOLS TO TELL A TALE” Improving reading and writing through tech

A one-day course presented by three key figures in primary education: Pie Corbett, David Mitchell and Tim Rylands,

“Be part of an evolving story alongside children from around the world, investigating a wondrous collection of digital and analog gems for bringing learning alive.

Join us, as we travel across dangerous terrain, through swamp-infested landscapes, and to the top of crumbling towers, all through the power of inventive technologies. Be a part of a live writing master-class, with children from Skye to Sydney, responding to this creative challenge.

An intriguing, imaginative and exciting experience, for those joining the journey, leaving everyone with copious practical ideas, approaches and technical tools to take back and use in their own teaching, with children of all ages, and abilities.”

Delegates will:

- discover a vast range of ways to use tech to enhance literacy
- explore methods of engaging interest, and developing communication
- be introduced to the power of blogging
- experience a Coveritlive collaborative writing session
- investigate shared writing in conjunction with powerful, accessible, technology
- be part of creating a story that travels around the world, and is built upon by children across the globe

Wednesday 25 May 9-4pm

£125 per person or £100 early bird booking (March 17-May 20)
Price includes refreshments and lunch (finger buffet)

Pie Corbett, David Mitchell and Tim Rylands

To book a place on the 'Tools to tell a Tale' course on Wednesday 25 May please complete the booking form below.

To book a place for the School of Education workshops on Tuesday 24 May and/or Thursday 26 May please email: education-cecd@brookes.ac.uk

There is no charge for the School of Education workshops.

Please send completed booking form with cheque or a request for an invoice for later settlement to:

NAPE National Office, Moulton College, Moulton, Northampton, NN3 7RR

Name/s	1	2.	3.
Address
Email:	Telephone:
	Early bird (pp) (from March 17- May 20)	Full rate (pp)
1 delegate	£100	£125
2 or more delegates	£75	£100
Student delegate	£10	£20
Enclosed cheque value		Or I require an invoice (please tick)
Signed:	Date:

Follow us on

/brookes.education

/brookes_edu

/oxfordbrookes

OXFORD
BROOKES UNIVERSITY