The OBBS provides PhD training for qualitative and quantitative methodology at two levels, A and B. For an overview of training please see your latest OBBS PhD Handbook 2020-21.

This semester Qualitative Level B will run online led by Professor Juliette Koning and Dr Karen Handley. It explores the various manners in which qualitative data can be analysed (and explores what data analysis is in the first place). The sessions will be very interactive and hands-on with students working with their own data. Therefore, this course is best suited for those students who already have collected their data or are doing data collection and are now pondering how to make sense of their data sets.

The scheduled dates are as follows:

Thursday 22 & 29 October 09.30 - 13.00

Thursday 12 & 19 November 09.30 - 13.00

Please RSVP if you wish to attend by October 15th, 2020.

Closer to the date we will be more specific about the contents of each session and communicate with those who have signed up.
